Updating Continues

The ETF database is now up to about 250 funds. Still more are planned to be added. The database is shown on pages 3 for income and 7-9 for equity. Pages have been reworked to account for the expansion.

The strategy will still be to buy from the top rated ETFs and avoid or short the laggards.

As for investing, the stock market is long overdue for a correction. Investors continued to pile on with bullish sentiment reaching well past warning levels. An obvious measure of this is the VIX index shown below as it bumped along the “complacency” warning levels the last couple months.

But now, we have an “excuse” for the market to decline. It is the Middle East turmoil that basically provides the signal to take profits and stand

The chart shows the daily S&P 500 with red smoothed line an 80-day moving average. The black is the VIX index. The lower part shows blue volume and red spikes as possible trading signals.

2/22/11 The contrarian buys from last week have paid off so far, especially the TIP buy.

2/14/11 I'll reenter the bond market again with some contrary oriented buys. Please note the sell stops near recent lows.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

2/22/11 The long term support for Treasuries appears to have held. They have bounced off support into their resistance line that has held the last six months. Given the Middle East turmoil, I'd expect the Treasury market to continue to rally.

2/14/11 The SLM Bond Timing Model is still bearish. But on a longer term chart the TLT (treasuries) is at major support levels around 88-90. That level was support back in June, 2008, June, 2009, and winter 2010. So I will begin to accumulate in anticipation of a trend change.

Income Charts

HYG—High Yield

2/22/11 Needs to remain above trend.
 2/14/11 Standing aside.
 2/4/11 Investors are stretching for yield.
 1/31/11 Still waiting.

WEEKLY REVIEW

2/22/11 Will raise even more cash, given the Middle East uncertainty. The market was very overbought and is due for a correction.

2/14/11 Raised the SLV stop very close. It should either continue it's recovery or fail. Still waiting for a pullback to buy.

Overflow and Errata

aside.

It is a bit odd, but this crisis is sort of turning out to be like the financial crises among sovereign nations of the last few years. What was supposed to be contained, instead spread world wide.

Likewise, in the MidEast region. Resistance has spread from nation to nation as people demand some accountability from their leaders. Did it start with Iraq?

The fear, of course, is that an oil shock will occur, that production will be trimmed, that prices will soar. If oil prices jump 10% to 50% or more from here, the world-wide economic recovery would be severely and negatively impacted.

The other fear is that other nations step into the power vacuums to destabilize the region or worse, create war.

What to do? The obvious thing is to raise cash. Better to miss the next 5% up than capture a 15% or worse decline. (Not making projections, but making a strategic suggestion.)

The next obvious move is to buy safety. The flight to quality in Treasuries has started already. Swiss francs have also benefited. Some of the new ETFs added are currency oriented. They are in the Income group.

As well, gold and silver continue to jump on the turmoil.

The issue for longer-term investors is these things might be short-term gyrations. If so, it would prove to be a whipsaw trade.

In sum, I've been expecting a correction of up to 15% for some time. Instead, the stock market has been rallying, it's time to raise even more cash in the Portfolio as noted on page six. Better to be safe than sorry in this environment.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 4)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 3: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:30pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $5/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.
