Short-term Top Ahead

Investors are piling into stocks and pushing up prices like there's no tomorrow. Bonds on the other hand are being sold. The background to this is better economic news both domestically and abroad. In addition, the Fed is more positive on the domestic economy, while still maintaining its late 2014 target before raising short-term interest rates. The thinking is buy risk (stocks) and sell safety (bonds, especially Treasuries).

As one might expect, however, not everything is perfect. With the rally, investor sentiment is nearly at the warning bullish extreme area. As a contrary indicator, this is a negative, signaling lower prices ahead.

The other negative is the ongoing divergence between the

WEEKLY REVIEW

3/19 All of the positions were stopped out last week. The economic news is coming in fairly strong. The Fed hinted that QE3 is probably not going to happen (that was the sell off trigger). But, they also said they'll keep rates low through the end of 2014. So, after this pullback, I expect to reenter. I'll let the dust settle first though. Target for LQD is about 112.

3/12 Watch the stops carefully. The assumption seems to be growing that the domestic economy is coming in fairly strong and so, the Fed may alter its 2014 "keep rates low" target. I don't think they will change it because of underlying bank solvency issues, but monitor the stops.

3/5 No changes.

2/27 Bonds pulled back slightly. LQD got within 0.02 of getting stopped out, but has rebounded again.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, and 9 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

3/19 The Model turned bearish (higher yields and lower prices forecasted).

3/12 Although the SLM Bond Timing Model is bullish this moment, it looks like the bond market is weakening. Treasuries and corporates are diverging from each other. And they have both broke their uptrend lines. Monitor the stop levels as noted on page 2 in the portfolio.

3/5 No changes.

2/27 Corporate bonds continue their relative performance. We remain bullish on bonds.

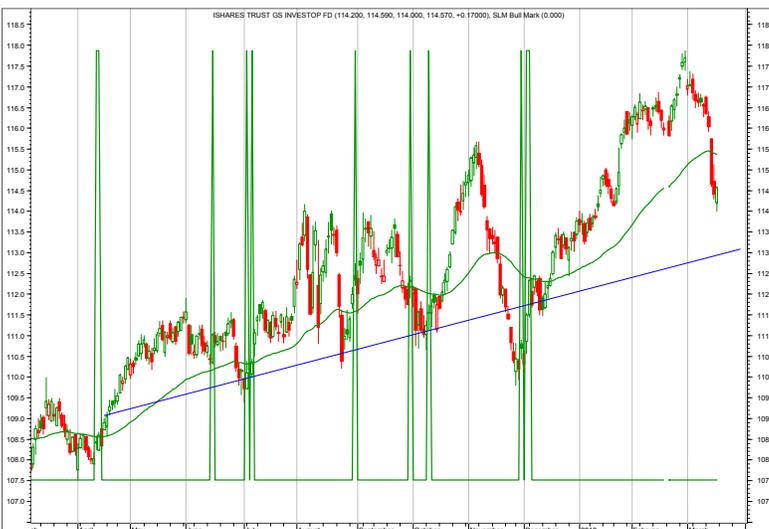

2/21 The Treasury market appears to be weakening, at least on a short-term basis. Can the corporate market hold up nonetheless? Please note the updated very close stop levels on the Portfolio page 2.

Income Charts

AGG—Aggregate Bond Market

3/19 Direction was down and we were stopped out. Have to wait for the next buy signal.
 3/12 Watch the stop levels, seems to be weakening.
 3/5 No direction yet.
 2/27 No breakout yet.
 2/21 Still wondering which way?
 2/13 Which way will she break?
 2/6 No change.
 1/30 Still bullish on bonds.
 1/23 Watching for an entry point.
 1/17 Coming back to where selling entered.

LQD—Corporate Bonds

3/19 Blue trend line is the next buy target.
 3/12 The strong rally of the last 3 months appears in need of rest.
 3/5 No change.
 2/27 Trending up.
 2/21 Nice rally from the last signal, but can't go straight up forever. Watch the stops.
 2/13 Been a good rally, but watch for prices to break down through the uptrend for first signs of weakness. Otherwise hang on.
 2/6 Continuing to hold. Raised the stop.

PHB—High Yield

3/19 Watching for the next buy signal. High yield funds seem to be in a sweet spot of a good economy and attractive yield.
 3/12 High yields show the same short-term weakness.
 3/5 No change.
 2/27 Rebounded to previous highs.
 2/21 High yield showing some relative strength.
 2/13 Daily chart again. Been a nice rally in "junk" bonds also.

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

3/19 I will make a couple of minor trades in here, buying GLD and EEM.

3/12 No changes.

3/5 Time to take profits. The market looks like it is at a short-term top area.

2/27 The short positions were all stopped out. The long positions participated in the rally. The net gain is nothing to write home about. Work on the newish model continues with backtesting.

2/21 Raised the stops and sold EEM based partially on the negative divergences between the Industrials and Transports.

2/13 No changes to the model at this time.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

Growth Charts

QQQ—OTC

3/19 No changes.
 3/12 Sharp correction and rally back up.
 Have to watch for any follow through or failure.
 3/5 Not shown is the action today (sell off below up trend line). So take profits.
 2/27 Still trending up.
 2/21 Watch the tight stop mentioned on page 6.
 2/13 Can't go straight up forever. Watch the trend line for reversals.
 2/6 Weekly chart, showing tech is leading.
 1/30 Recovery highs.

GLD—Gold

3/19 Go long per the Growth Portfolio.
 3/12 Short-term buy signal on gold, but standing aside.
 3/5 Something happened on the way to the bank.
 2/27 Broke through its down trend line.
 Odds are it is heading to recovery highs.
 2/21 Maintain short for now, as GLD is still in a downward intermediate-term trend.
 2/13 Have resorted with the idea that GLD is in a confirmed down channel. Since it is close to the top of the channel, it provides a low-risk entry point.

EEM—MSCI Emerging Markets

3/19 There's been many false signals, but I'll enter per the Growth Portfolio.
 3/12 There was a short-term buy triggered, but standing aside.
 3/5 Standing aside.
 2/27 Also broke through the down trend.
 2/21 This fund has rallied back to its intermediate-term down trend line. Time to take profits as noted on page 6.

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

Overflow from Page 1, Definitions, and Newsletter Updates

Dow Industrials and the Dow Transportation indexes. The Industrials are at recovery highs, but the Transports are lagging.

Lastly, the increase in bond yields does provide some competition to stocks once again.

These things suggest a short-term top ahead.

In the meantime, there are some trades in the Growth Portfolio. The Income Portfolio is all in cash for now.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use regularly.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Cyclical is 2-5 years.

Secular is 5 years to decades.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

Oddly, bull and bear markets may occur simultaneously, but over different time periods. For example, we may be in a secular bear market, but there are cyclical bull and bear markets.

Closing stops are “mental”. I look at the position at quarter to the close. If it is trading below the stop (or above if short), then I act with the assumption the security will trigger that closing stop on that day. I sell (or cover) at the close that day.

3/19/12 No changes.

3/12/12 No changes to the Newsletter.

3/5/12 Back testing of a new timing model is underway.

2/27/12 No changes to the letter or models yet.

2/21/12 No changes.

2/13/12 I am still working on the ETF allocation model that I've mentioned a few times before. It is designed to combine both ETF selecting and timing into one model. It is moving more slowly than I thought it would, but steady progress continues.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

Both portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment. This is a broad based index of domestic stocks.
