Divergences Showing

After last week's bombshell that at least one rating service (S&P) may reduce their sovereign debt ranking of the United States within the next two years, the market has bounced back as if in defiance to the warning. We simply don't believe that things are potentially that bad; we believe that our politicians will somehow do the right thing by their country.

After the one-day reaction, the most widely watched index has made it back to recovery highs. The Dow Industrials hit 12,506. But, for the first time in this recovery rally from the March 2009 bottom, many, if not all, other major indexes have begun to lag, at least on a very short-term basis.

The Dow Transports have not hit recovery highs, lagging by about 2%. The NASDAQ

The chart shows the daily S&P 500 with red smoothed line an 80-day moving average. The lower part shows blue volume and red spikes as possible trading signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

4/25/11 No changes.

4/18/11 After getting stopped out, the bond market appears to have turned again. Buy as noted above.

4/11/11 Three of the four bond positions were stopped out last week as the Treasury market began to slide again. The counter rally should have held at support, but it didn't.

4/4/11 No changes.

3/28/11 No changes. Sitting tight through the current pullback. It should turn and rally.

3/21/11 No changes.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, and 9 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

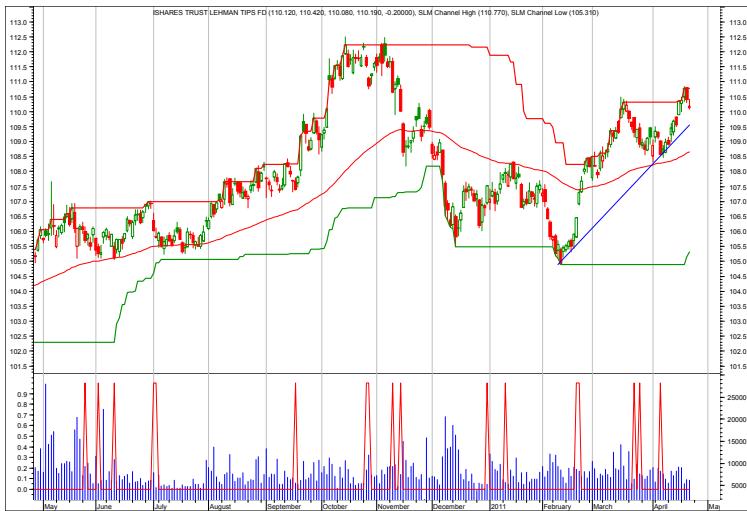

4/25/11 Bonds remain bullish for now.

4/18/11 After falling below its support, the bond market has turned and rallied.

4/11/11 Support didn't hold as expected. Three of the four Income Portfolio positions were stopped out. At this time, it is best to stand aside and see what the market does. If inflation is returning, then bonds will continue to fall in price. Yields will have to rise to compensate investors for the decline in purchasing power.

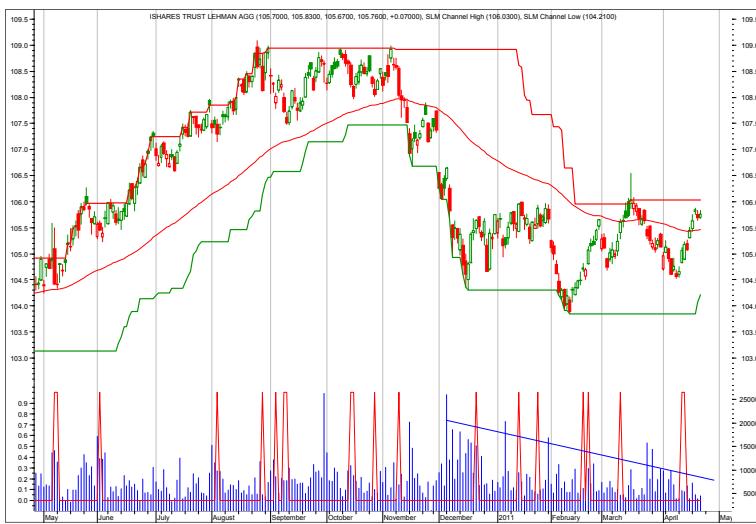

4/4/11 We've pulled back to major support, which sets up a series of higher highs and higher lows. This is bullish and suggests still higher prices (and lower yields) ahead.

Income Charts

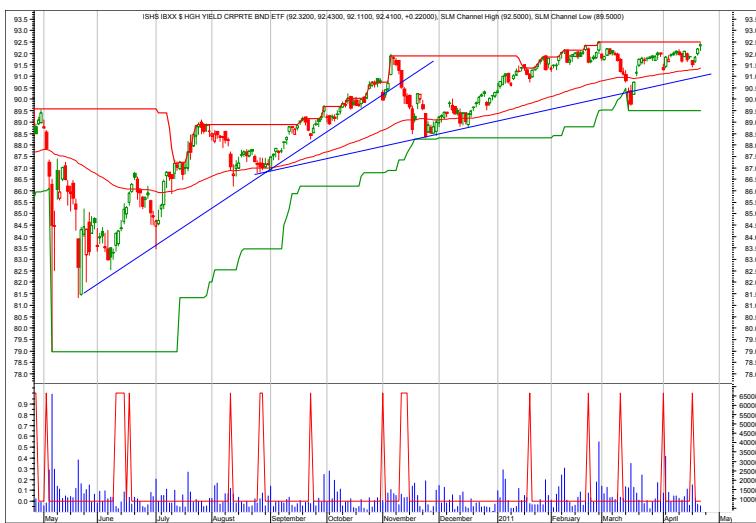

TIP—Inflation Protected

4/25/11 Bull market continues.
4/18/11 Continue to hold for projected target.
4/11/11 Mild pullback.
4/4/11 Continue to hold.
3/28/11 In the expected pullback.
3/21/11 Hold
3/11/11 Rally on inflation fears.

AGG—Aggregate Bond Market

4/25/11 Volume dried up on the recent sell off last week, suggesting a bottom.
4/18/11 Buy.

HYG—High Yield

4/25/11 No change.
4/18/11 Standing aside.
4/11/11 Potential entry points are now identified along the most recent uptrend line.
4/4/11 Continue to avoid.
3/28/11 No change.
3/21/11 Still avoid.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion, a relative strength indicator between the ETF and AGG (Aggregated bond ETF) (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential places to buy and sell short. If the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell shorts. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows potential buys. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

4/25/11 Given the negative divergences in the various market indexes and given that the Russell 2000 (IWM) was the leader, I'll take profits now.

4/18/11 We were stopped out of XLE last week. Sold back to cash.

4/11/11 Please note that I've raised the stop prices as of 4/8 (last Friday)

4/4/11 The two shorts were stopped out at small losses. The long positions continue to climb.

3/28/11 No changes.

3/21/11 Make the purchases and short as noted above.

3/11/11 No changes this week.

3/9/11 XLE looks like it is turning over and will be sold.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

This shows the ETF Growth Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. Rank shows the number of comets from 5 to 1. The larger the better.

Growth Charts

SLV—Silver

4/25/11 SLV is going parabolic (rate of change is accelerating), which is a terminal move. A pullback to $30 would not be unreasonable. Raise the stop very close.

4/18/11 Raised the stop level again.

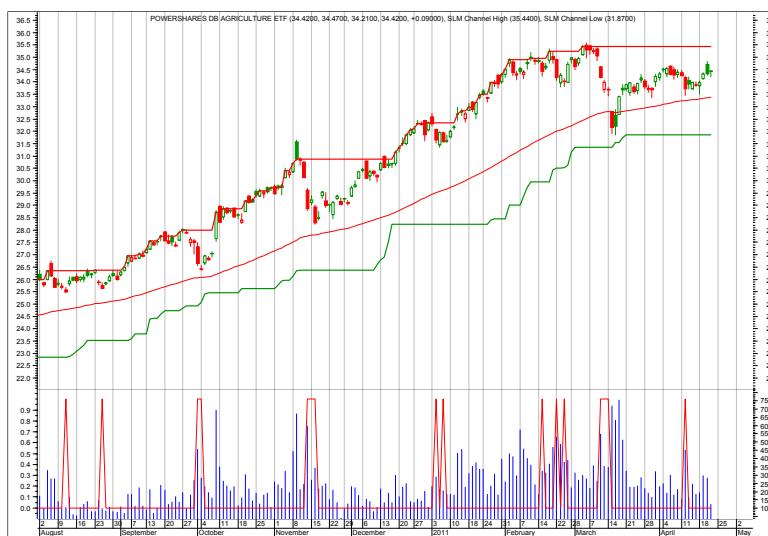

4/11/11 Stepping back to look at SLV, we see it is in a parabolic type rise. This will end.

4/4/11 Heck of a rally. Note the uptrend line as a possible stop area.

3/28/11 Hold.

3/21/11 Hold.

3/11/11 Watch the strong up trend.

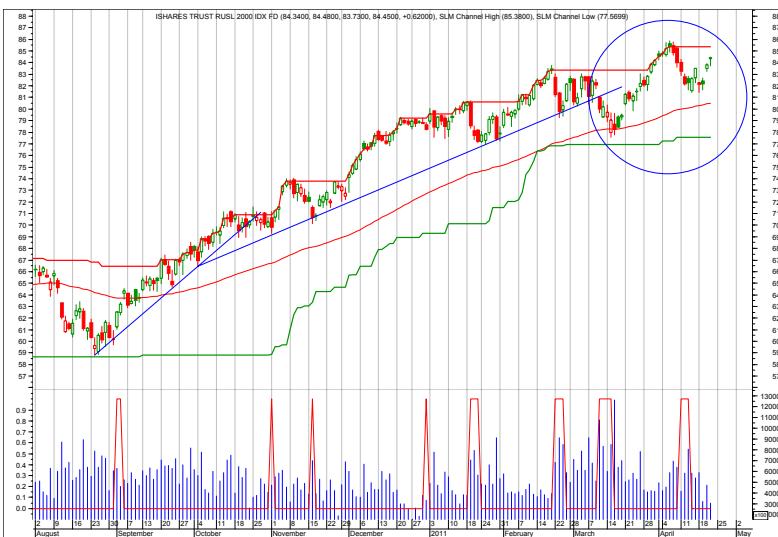

DBA—Agriculture

4/25/11 No change.

4/18/11 No change.

4/11/11 Well defined up trend.

IWM—Russell 2000

4/25/11 Possible intermediate-term topping area circled on the chart.

4/18/11 No change.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

Overflow and Newsletter Updates

Composite lags. The Russell 2000, the former index leader over the last two years, now lags. The S&P 500 lags. Lastly, the NYSE advance/decline line also lags.

These divergences signal a potential short-term trend change from up to down.

Having said all of that, I want to point out that it is not quite enough for the markets to show negative divergences. After all, the markets may shortly turn and rally again, turning those laggards once again into leaders. So, we have to consider other things for confirmation of this potential topping area.

Other inputs I look at are investor sentiment, the Fed, and the economy as measured in a variety of ways.

For example, the VIX (volatility index) is at complacency levels, trading below 16, which suggests that the next move will be down to shake up the complacency. But investor sentiment when measured in other ways, has already pulled itself back from complacency areas. On another note, the Fed remains accommodative, flooding the markets with money that has to go somewhere. Corporate earnings have recovered to pre-financial crisis levels, but with practically zero interest rates, that makes the earnings cheap in comparison.

So, aside from the negative divergences, not much else really suggests a peak at this time, but it bears close watching.

4/25/11 I plan to add additional ETFs to the database for ranking and sorting and performance. It is currently about 250.

I have completed a model structuring that combines ETF-specific timing with selecting. Back testing is now required. If long-term (10 years) results come in better, then I will let subscribers know of a potential change.

4/18/11 I updated the symbols for the Powershares Small Cap sector ETFs. These will show up next month.

No other changes.

PORFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:30pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied. Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.
