Do Elections Matter?

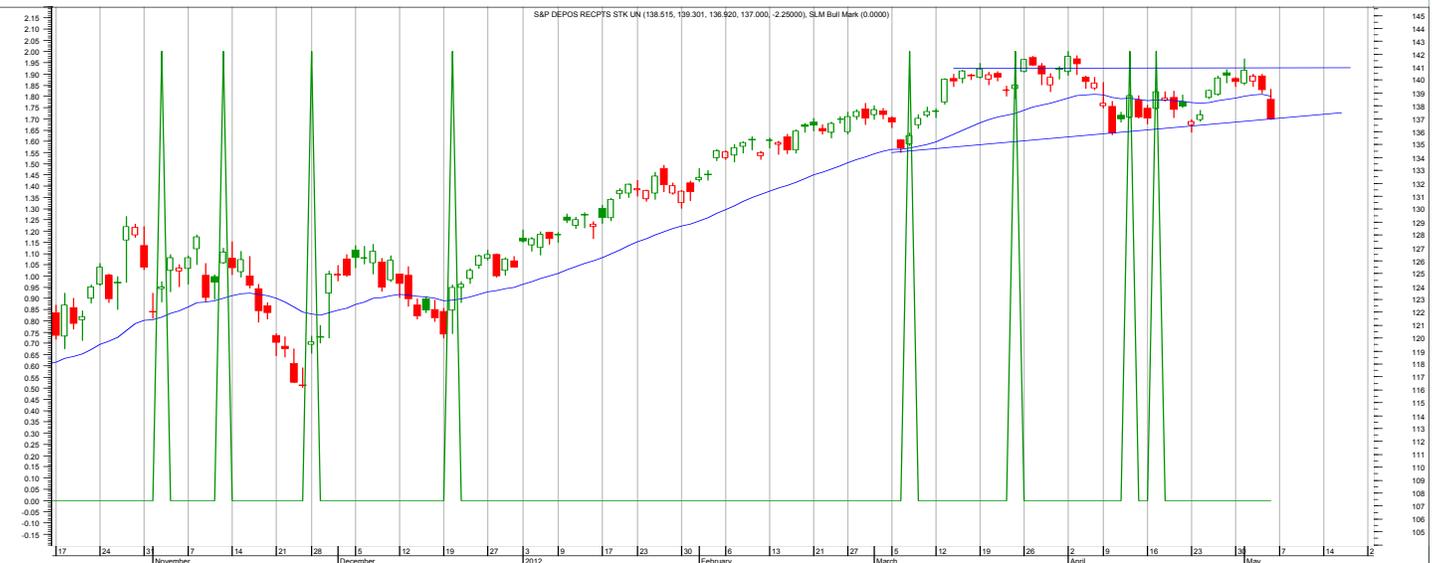

Election news over the weekend from Europe has continued to negatively impact stock markets. It is not as if investors don't know Europe has problems. They do and it does. But evidently the elections haven't gone quite as expected. Elections, after all,

WEEKLY REVIEW

5/4 No changes.

4/30 JNK reversed right after the stop out. Frustrating.

4/23 Bonds meander higher to sideways. No changes now.

4/16 Stopped out of JNK. But will look to reenter.

4/8 No changes.

4/2 Junk (high-yield) remains relatively attractive. I will also buy PCY (emerging markets sovereign debt), but watch the stop.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, 9, and 10 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

5/4 Still bullish, still waiting for a pullback.

4/30 Still bullish, but no pullbacks yet.

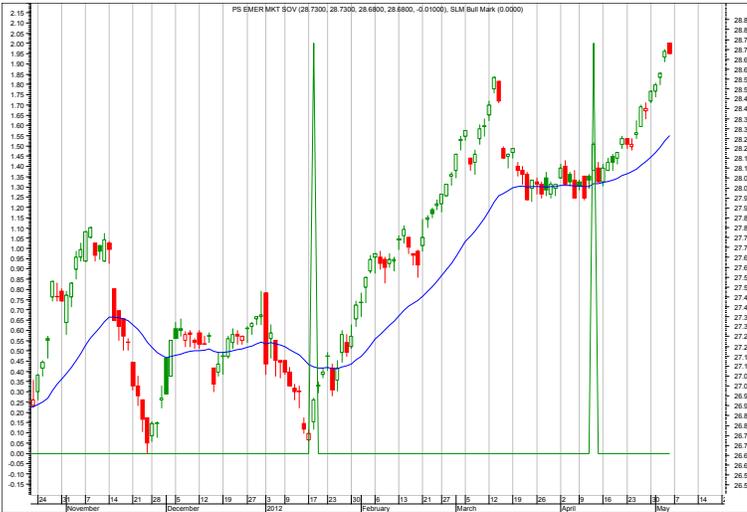

4/23 The Model is back to bullish. I prefer to buy on pullbacks, rather than chase it here.

4/16 The bond market has had a decent rebound rally after breaking major support lines. Still watching for some pullbacks in order to buy.

4/8 The bond market is in correction mode within a long-term uptrend. I'll be watching for buy areas.

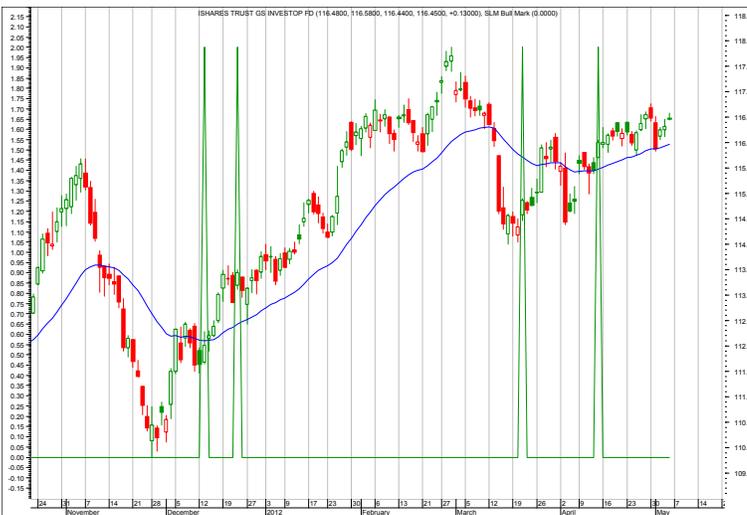

4/2 The bond market bounced back last week after its sharp sell off. I'll be watching to see if any buy signals develop. After all, the Fed has signaled its intention to keep short-term rates down through the end of 2014.

Income Charts

PCY—emerging market sovereign debt

5/4 It closed the gap from March and then some.
 4/30 No change. It may close the gap.
 4/23 No change.
 4/16 Still attractive.
 4/8 No changes.
 4/2 If the crisis in Europe is reaching an end, then PCY may benefit.

LQD—Corporate Bonds

5/4 No change.
 4/30 No change, waiting for a pullback.
 4/23 No change.
 4/16 Will look to buy on pullbacks.
 4/8 No changes.
 4/2 Bouncing. But a further pullback expected.
 3/26 No changes.
 3/19 Blue trend line is the next buy target.
 3/12 The strong rally of the last 3 months appears in need of rest.\

JNK—Hi Yield

5/4 No change.
 4/30 That's annoying to be stopped out near the bottom, only to watch it reverse and head back up. I still think Hi Yield is in the sweet spot of a recovering economy and low alternative yields.
 4/23 Hi yield still looks relatively attractive, as long as no recession is in sight. Domestically this is true, but internationally, not really.
 4/16 Was stopped out of the position, but will look to reenter.

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

5/4 Buy GLD (gold) again with another tight stop as noted above.

4/30 No changes.

4/23 I tightened the stop. The market is still more of a trending sideways than trending up or down.

4/16 Buy PKW as noted above.

4/8 Gold was stopped out. Will watch for a reentry point.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

elected. The normal political give and take will prevail, but hopefully, without the past gridlock on key American issues.

My expectation is that tax increases and spending cuts are all but a done deal. Stop waste and fraud need not even be mentioned. The question is whether these programs are anticipated, and it doesn't look like it. Have we ever expected our elected officials to do what's necessary so that they won't get reelected? And that is perhaps what might be necessary.

Still, however, the ongoing assumption is the Fed will continue to ease and may even conduct a QE III, even if fiscal restraint comes to pass. So, the market remains buoyant for now, but like always bears very close watching.

The first year of the four-year presidential election cycle is historically the weakest as politicians do in fact try to do what's right for the country as a whole. We have to bring down entitlement spending and reduce deficits. If this happens, then 2013 may prove to be a normal bear market. But a normal bear market sees 30-50% losses.

In the meantime, see the individual portfolio pages for any changes.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use regularly.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Cyclical is 2-5 years.

Secular is 5 years to decades.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

Oddly, bull and bear markets may occur simultaneously, but over different time periods. For example, we may be in a secular bear market, but there are cyclical bull and bear markets.

Closing stops are "mental". I look at the position at quarter to the close. If it is trading below the stop (or above if short), then I act with the assumption the security will trigger that closing stop on that day. I sell (or cover) at the close that day.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

Both portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment. This is a broad based index of domestic stocks.
