New Bear Begins?

With the technical sell off to new lows as shown on the chart below and the fundamental economic deterioration, the question has to be asked whether a new bear market has begun or not? Let's look at the evidence.

Sentiment. Investor sentiment remains in neutral territory. It is neither too bullish or bearish. We can't say it is complacent, we can't say it is fearful. This indicator really is not much help.

Market Action. Both the Dow Industrials and Dow Transports (and other indexes) have moved below previous lows that were set up before the negative divergence evolved. This is definitely a negative. It defines the bear market.

Monetary Policy. The latest Fed action, Operation Twist

This is the daily chart of SPY (S&P 500 index). The green spikes show potential buying areas.

WEEKLY REVIEW

6/4 The Treasury market is very overbought. Don't chase and consider taking profits.

5/28 Investment Grade bonds (LQD) have pulled back, so time to reenter as noted above..

5/21 Reenter the positions as noted above and with new stop levels. They should rally back. Treasuries have been relatively strong, while sovereign debt and junk (hi-yield) weakened. I expect this to reverse.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, 9, and 10 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

6/4 Spike moves (up or down) are typically not sustainable. You can see the latest spike move in Treasuries above. If you have some, consider taking profits. A pullback is normal.

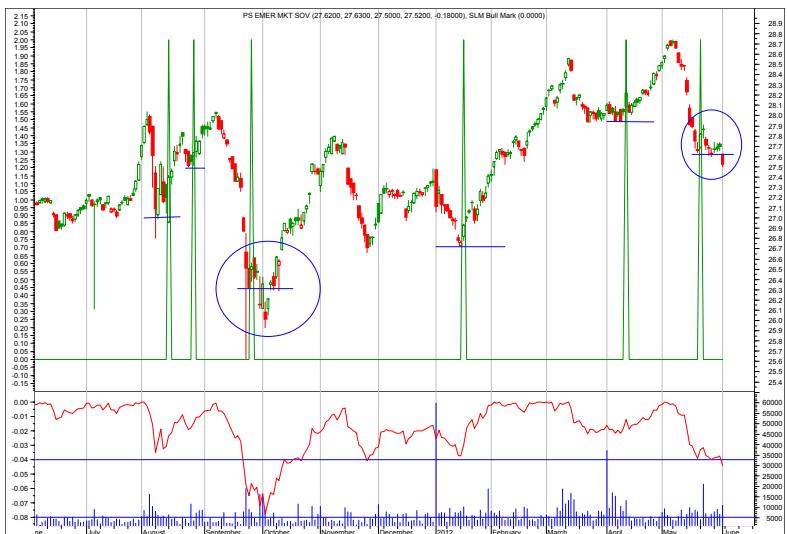

5/29 Treasuries benefiting from EU (Greece and Spain) worries. But is the relative strength waning?

5/21 Treasuries have had a huge rally based on Greece and EU worries.

5/14 No change.

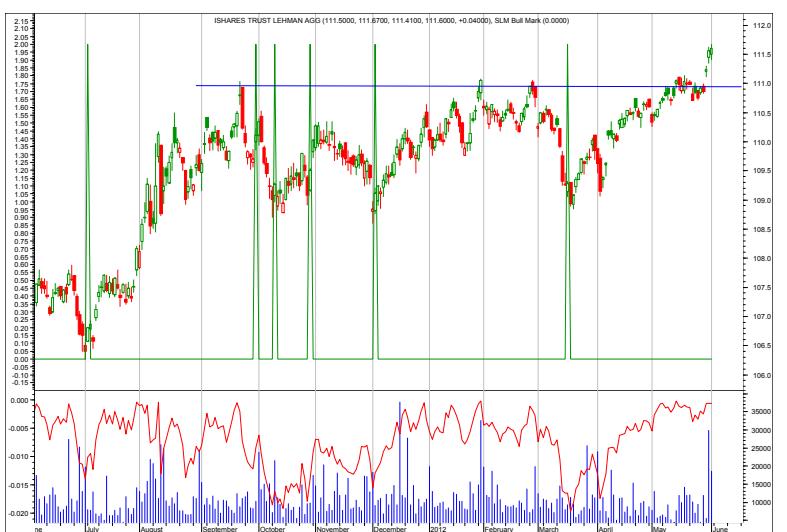

5/4 Still bullish, still waiting for a pullback.

Income Charts

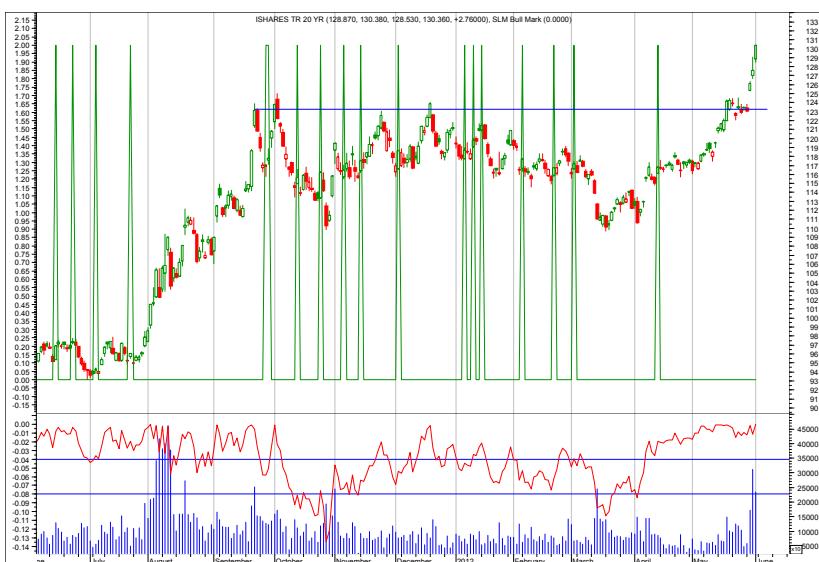

PCY—emerging market sovereign debt

- 6/4 Of six signals, two went below their previous lows. This is circled.
- 5/28 Low risk buying area.
- 5/21 Time to reenter because it is oversold.
- 5/14 No changes.
- 5/4 It closed the gap from March and then some.
- 4/30 No change. It may close the gap.
- 4/23 No change.
- 4/16 Still attractive.
- 4/8 No changes.
- 4/2 If the crisis in Europe is reaching an end, then PCY may benefit.

AGG—Aggregate Bond Index

- 6/4 It will be interesting to see if AGG (the aggregate bond market, including Treasuries) can sustain this breakout. Are yields at a permanent new low level?
- 5/28 Potential breakout with weak economy.
- 5/21 No changes.

TLT—20 year Treasuries

- 6/4 New breakout to permanent new low interest rates?

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

6/4 Couple of positions were stopped out in the latest sell off.

5/28 No changes.

5/21 Buy as noted above. Watch the stops. The market is oversold and should bounce back into previous support. This will probably be just a short-term trade.

5/14 Watch the stops, if the market rolls over.

5/4 Buy GLD (gold) again with another tight stop as noted above.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

EWP—Spain

6/4 No good to buy when the primary trend is down. The definition of a bear market is when it is making lower lows and lower highs. When you buy into that, you're nearly guaranteed losses.

5/28 We were short this one, but too tight of stops. Spain has lost 50% in the last 12 months, but no reason at this point to buy.

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

wherein it sells short-term bills and buys long-term notes and bonds, is set to expire at month's end. Unless it is extended, this is a negative.

But 10-year Treasuries are already at historic lows around 1.5%. Given the weak job market, it is doubtful the Fed won't try to do something more. It will most likely continue its Operation Twist program. Meanwhile, it is committed to keeping short-term rates near zero at least through the end of 2014. Unfortunately, each program has had less and less of a positive impact. So, this is a mildly positive position, but one already discounted..

Economy. Clearly the EU is in a recession. China is slowing. Brazil is slowing. The US is slowing. However, the latter three are still in a growth phase, just not as robust as it was. The fear is we will continue to slow down. Where's the demand?

Politics. There is great uncertainty as to who the next president will be and which party will dominate Congress. Believe it's called a lame duck. Major policy issues abound nonetheless. If the tax cuts expire and spending cuts retained, various studies have suggested this will automatically push the US also into recession next year. Given that the stock market looks ahead, we may already be seeing this anticipated. Obviously a recession hurts corporate profits, so a PE of 14x may easily become 21x in a slowdown. The market marks itself down to reflect that.

So, to answer the question whether a bear market has begun, the answer appears to be yes.

To be sure, like any other bear, or bull market for that matter, nothing moves in a straight line. There will be rallies and sell offs. But the main trend now appears to be down.

The secular bear dating from 2000 continues and appears to now be joined by the start of a cyclical bear market whose eventual bottom looks to be 2013-2014. A typical cyclical bear will decline roughly 40% peak to trough.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use regularly.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Cyclical is 2-5 years.

Secular is 5 years to decades.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

Oddly, bull and bear markets may occur simultaneously, but over different time periods. For example, we may be in a secular bear market, but there are cyclical bull and bear markets.

Closing stops are "mental". I look at the position at quarter to the close. If it is trading below the stop (or above if short), then I act with the assumption the security will trigger that closing stop on that day. I sell (or cover) at the close that day.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

Both portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied. Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment. This is a broad based index of domestic stocks.

You may subscribe on the web site InvestmentST.com using PayPal or call 1-800-800-6563 for Amex, Visa, MasterCard, or Discover orders or send a check to the address on the front page. Subscriptions may be tax deductible.

The recurring monthly subscription is $24.00. An annual subscription is $240.00. Subscribers receive this weekly eNewsletter. There is no mailed issue. Subscribers retrieve the current weekly issue at the web site InvestmentST.com by logging in with a user name and password.

Unless otherwise noted, the weekly eNewsletter is posted by 1:35 PM central time each Monday, except for holidays and then on Tuesday. It may contain actionable, specific buy or sell advice to take that day at the Monday close in each portfolio. We may also use stop orders. For stops, check the ETF at quarter to the close. If it is below (or above) a stop level, assume it will close there and act on that. Portfolio data will be updated through the previous Friday's close. Fund symbols, rather than names, are the official identification used for activity.

GUARANTEE: Subscriptions may be cancelled at any time. Annual subscriptions are refundable for the weekly term remaining with a four-week minimum charge, using a 52-week count. Monthly subscriptions just expire.
